

INJECTOR WITH CHANGEABLE SYRINGE CONSTANTS

Abstract of the Invention

An intravenous contrast injector which stores different syringe definitions in firmware includes a software routine that permits a service technician to update the syringe definitions without requiring the installation of new firmware. These syringe definitions can then be used when the injector performs operational routines such as filling a syringe.